

Shalvah Means Serenity; It's a Meeting for Human Beings Working the Challenges Associated with Addiction

We meet twice a week. We call the meeting Shalvah. We are teaching positives for the challenge of substances. We teach growth. We do not practice aloneness. We meet on Zoom and we think we have a secret wisdom that gets us through.

This is how we end the meeting.

Master of the Universe,

Having had a spiritual awakening as the result of these steps
We are about to close the meeting
Let peace rise from our kitchens
Wherever we are sitting

Shall we save ourselves and not help others?
We want peace and we want it now
We are starving for it
For it and the living G*d
For everything that issues from Your mouth

We will receive each of us to our own capacity
Along this journey of secret destinations
Instruments of the working out of all things partial becoming whole
Schooled by nothing loftier than the poetry of our own lives
We who have been cracked open from the inside out
G*d entering through our wounds
The last place we expected

Amen

jsg

Deut.8:3

Ex.16:21

Working the borderline between substances and Substance